John Paul II, Pope
Homily (May 20, 2001)
Sunday, May 20, 2001

1. "The Paraclete, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, will teach you everything and remind you of everything I have told you" (Jn 14:26). This is the great promise Jesus made during the Last Supper. As the time of the cross approaches, he reassures the Apostles, telling them that they will not be alone: the Holy Spirit, the Paraclete, will be with them and support them in their great mission of bringing the Gospel to the whole world.

In the original Greek, the term Paraclete indicates one who accompanies, protects, and helps a person. Jesus returns to the Father, but continues the work of teaching and encouraging his disciples through the gift of the Spirit.

What is the mission of the promised Holy Spirit? As we have just heard in the text taken from the Gospel of St. John, it is Jesus himself who explains it: "He will teach you everything and remind you of all that I have said to you" (Jn 14:26). Jesus has already communicated everything he wanted to say to the Apostles: with him, the incarnate Word, revelation is complete. The Spirit will bring to mind, that is, to fully understand and concretely live the teachings of Jesus. This is what happens even today in the Church. As the Second Vatican Council affirms, under the guidance, light, and power of the Holy Spirit, "the Church journeys through the centuries toward the fullness of divine truth, until the words of God are fully fulfilled in her" (Dei Verbum, 8).

5. "The angel (...) showed me the holy city, Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven, sent from God with glory" (Rev 21:10). The vision of the heavenly Jerusalem, impressively described in the Book of Revelation, shows us the goal toward which the Church and all humanity are striving. It is the goal of the full and definitive communion of humankind with God. With this goal in view, believers commit themselves to living the Gospel and at the same time contribute to the building of an earthly city according to God's own heart.

May Mary, whom we venerate and implore with special devotion during this month of May as our heavenly Mother, always protect your community and the entire Diocese of Rome. May she, the first to welcome the divine Word into her virginal womb, help us to become ever more like her divine Son, ready to faithfully proclaim the word of the Gospel and bear witness to it with the consistency of our lives. Amen.

The Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance.

JOHN 14:26

"LIKE MARY, WE MUST NOT BE AFRAID
TO ALLOW THE HOLY SPIRIT TO HELP YOU
BECOME FRIENDS OF CHRIST"

In the Eucharist, you hide your divinity and humanity, but in the silence of my heart, you are transfigured, Lord. And your light returns to rescue me, to heal me, to make me fall in love. How good I feel here, at your side, Lord.

And he carried me away in spirit onto a great and high mountain and showed me the holy city, Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God.

Rev. 21:10
